

RADICAL TEACHER

A SOCIALIST, FEMINIST, AND ANTI-RACIST JOURNAL ON THE THEORY AND PRACTICE OF TEACHING

Contributors' Notes

Teaching for Justice

PHOTO BY MICHELLE DING ON UNSPLASH

Andrea Serine Avery is the Director of Curriculum and Instruction and an English department faculty member at Phoenix Country Day School, a secular, independent preK-12 day school in Arizona. She holds a BA, MFA, and Ed.D from Arizona State University.

Michael Bennett, Professor Emeritus of English at Long Island University (Brooklyn), is on the Editorial Board of Radical Teacher.

Teresa A. Booker is an Associate Professor of Africana Studies at John Jay College of Criminal Justice where she teaches courses on ethnic studies, research methods, and restorative justice. She has published in The International Journal of Restorative Justice, The Journal of Pan African Studies, and is the editor of the book Public Space, Public Policy and Public Understanding of Race and Ethnicity in America: An Interdisciplinary Approach.

Peri Bradley is Senior Lecturer Faculty of Media & Communication at Bournemouth University.

Michele Board is Principal Academic in Nursing and Older People, Faculty of Health & Social Sciences at Bournemouth University

Lorraine Brown is Associate Professor Tourism, Faculty of Management at Bournemouth University.

Sara Ashencaen Crabtree is Professor of Social & Cultural Diversity in the Department of Social Sciences & Social Work, Faculty of Health and Social Sciences, Bournemouth University UK.

Anita Diaz is Associate Professor in Ecology, Faculty of Resource Science & Technology at Bournemouth University.

Sarah Chinn teaches in and is chair of the English department at Hunter College, CUNY. She has published widely on a variety of issues from transgender Title VII cases to food justice to the U.S./Mexico war. Her most recent book is Spectacular Men: Race, Gender, and Nation on the Early American Stage (2017).

Andrea Cornwall is a political anthropologist who specialises in the anthropology of democracy, citizen participation, participatory research, gender and sexuality. She has worked on topics ranging from women's reproductive struggles in Nigeria and Zimbabwe, public engagement in UK regeneration programmes, the quality of democratic deliberation in new democratic spaces in Brazil, the use and abuse of participatory appraisal in Kenya, domestic workers' rights activism in Brazil and sex workers' rights activism in India.

Luciana Esteves is Associate Professor in Physical Geography and Faculty of Resource Science and Technology at Bournemouth University.

Anna Feigenbaum is Principal Academic in Digital Storytelling, Faculty of Media & Communication at Bournemouth University.

Nicholas Hengen Fox is tenured instructor of Literature, Writing, and Social Justice at Portland Community College, Oregon.

Tanya Friedman is a Literacy Specialist, Instructional Coach and an Equity Facilitator.

Jenny Hall is Senior Lecturer in PGCE Education, Centre for Excellence in Learning at Bournemouth University.

Clifton Hamilton is a Visual Arts teacher at North Miami Middle School in North Miami, Florida and an Adjunct Professor of Research Methodologies at Barry University, located in Miami Shores, Florida. He and a colleague have presented several papers exploring the relationship between schooling and the unsustainable culture of mass consumption. He considers the visual arts to be the perfect medium for student self-exploration and growth.

Vanessa Heaslip is Principal Academic in Adult Nursing, Faculty of Health & Social Sciences at Bournemouth University.

Ann Hemingway is Professor of Public Health & Wellbeing, in the Department of Public Health and Wellbeing at Bournemouth University.

Maggie Hutchings is Faculty of Health & Social Sciences at Bournemouth University.

Helen Jacey is Principal Academic in Media Communication at Bournemouth University.

Katherine D. Kearns is associate vice provost for student development and director of the Office of Postdoctoral Affairs in the Office of the Vice Provost for Graduate Education and Health Sciences at Indiana University. She coordinates programs that support persistence, professional skill development, and career preparation of graduate students and postdoctoral scholars. As a frequent collaborator with graduate students and faculty on scholarship of teaching and learning projects, her research and practice concentrate on teaching preparation as part of graduate student development; diversity, equity, and inclusion; and integrating research and teaching experiences with personal and professional values and identities.

Sarah Trembath is a professorial lecturer in the Writing Studies Program at American University. She is also an editor, writer, performance artist, and educator. Her written work has appeared in the Santa Fe Writer's Project Quarterly, the Rumpus, Everyday Feminism, Sally Hemings Dream zine, Azure literary journal, DCist, and the Grace in Darkness anthology of DC women writers. Her first book (a collection of poetry and prose on coloniality, race, and class) was called This Past Was Waiting for Me and came out in 2018. Her collection of poems on temptation and loss (It Was the Scarlet that Did It) is due out in 2019. She is a graduate of Temple University in Philadelphia and Howard University in DC.

Shane McCoy is a Lecturer in the department of English at Middle Tennessee State University in Murfreesboro, Tennessee. His research focuses on Africana women's literature, critical and feminist pedagogies, social justice, and pedagogies of empowerment. His courses have focused on contemporary transnational literature, women of colour and black feminisms, Hurricane Katrina, and comedy as social and cultural critique. He is currently at work on a book manuscript that weds contemporary Africana women's literature to feminist affect studies.

Liz Norton is Senior Lecturer Public Health & Wellbeing, Faculty of Health & Social Sciences at Bournemouth University.

Shadia Siliman is an Instructional Consultant focused on Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion at the Ohio State University's Institute for Teaching and Learning. She assists instructors in accounting for identity differences along such lines as race, class, gender, nationality, sexual orientation, (dis)ability, citizenship, and more, and helps instructors cultivate intersectional, rather than just inclusive, pedagogies. To do so, she draws from her ongoing activist work, as well as her dissertation research centering on Women of Color feminisms.

Sue Sudbury is Principal Academic in Media Production and Faculty of Media & Communication at Bournemouth University.

Shelley Thompson is Faculty of Media & Communication at Bournemouth University.

Andrew Tonkovich is a Lecturer at UC Irvine and member of University Council-American Federation of Teachers, the union representing Librarians and Lecturers. He is the long-time editor of the West Coast literary journal Santa Monica Review, and hosts Bibliocracy Radio, a books show and podcast on KPFK's Pacifica Radio in Southern California. His fiction, reviews and nonfiction have appeared in Best American Nonrequired Reading, Ecotone, Los Angeles Times, OC Weekly and Los Angeles Review of Books. He co-edited the first-ever literary survey of Orange County, Orange County: A Literary Field Guide, and is author of a novella collection, The Dairy of Anne Frank and More Wish Fulfilment in the Noughties.

Dr. Sonia Maldonado Torres is an Associate Professor in the Early Childhood Department at Hostos Community College (CUNY).

Anne Quinney is Educational Excellence Leader, Centre of Excellence in Learning at Bournemouth University.

Jocelyn Wills is a Professor of History at Brooklyn College, City University of New York.

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-No Derivative Works 3.0 United States License.

This journal is published by the University Library System of the University of Pittsburgh as part of its D-Scribe Digital Publishing Program, and is cosponsored by the University of Pittsburgh Press.